X4:Split Vendetta: begins two hundred years after the collapse of the Hard Line Alliance, on the ruins of the shattered Empire. The current order of Space is tenuous, with a new breed of pirates taking the law into their own hands. Your home, a lone psi-powered mining ship called 'Avenger', was constructed at the height of the Empire to extract a miraculous new element that could help make the Alliance great again. Now your crew is rebuilding a new ship, and yours might be the only support line against the lawless new Pirate lords. The Split family clans will threaten the empire's fragile new order. New faction splits the pirates and the Disaffected Imperials, who created the Alliance in the first place. The Oligarchs lead the Imperials, an old class of ship that once reigned supreme on the other side of the rift. The Disaffected are a new invention, a group of clans that represent pirates and rogues who hate the government. Classification:BetrayalThe story mission:Avenger is slowly making its way through the rift when it is attacked by a madman. As a new piracy era begins the crew must hunt down the splinter faction in this new story mission!Key Features:Faction splits:The Splits are the main faction in X4: Split Vendetta. The split of the pirates is between the many factions of the Splits, as well as the Disaffected Imperials, who ripped off the Hardline Army Alliance and created the new federation of nations. Other main factions are being developed as well. New Ship Evolution:The new ships and weapons in X4: Split Vendetta are the culmination of a huge new research and development programme that goes back many years. New designs, new factions, new weapons and a new society - no more boring old designs. Ship Evolution:Ship classes:The key to the success of any industry is diversity. New Ship Evolution will allow you to evolve your ships from hulls into designs and systems as you work your way through the missions.Every class now has both broad hull types that serve as the backbone of the fleet, and options for exotic missions, too.Avenger is the template for all ship classes in Split Vendetta. See the Ship Designation tooltip for more details.Extraterritoriality: In this expansion, ships can no longer be boarded and pirates are free to do as they wish. If you have an Avenger, you can explore the realm

PC: Bought it a few years ago now and I'm putting it down on my list to finish it. Not bad for a first game; there are a lot of bugs I just don't understand. If you've bought the game and got it working, I'd like to know. The problem that I ran into was all of the fantasy game settings. However the game's rules were pretty helpful, and I understand most of them. All that in itself makes it a challenging game. I would have liked to have seen some more ship combat. There are no treasure cards and I'd like to be able to think about how to use mine. There are some NPCs and I'm not sure if they are part of the story or not. There are various difficult encounters and handouts of basic rules. With a game of that length I would like to have seen a bit more meaty experience in terms of what I can do. We had a great time, and they are a lot of fun. It's

What's new:

This morning I woke up early and took a nice walk on the beach. Yes, the beach wasn't too crowded, but still not too quiet either. Soft speaking voices echoed from the distant foggy ocean. A few birds twittered here and there. A turtle cooed, then bellowed and splashed through the surf. At times though, the sea was just too silent. It was then that I remembered the first time I'd watched a video of a young girl all alone on the beach. "I'm only eight years old! Just eight!" I thought to myself. I felt a pang in my heart. It was the same pang that used to wake me up every morning through my teens. I was reminded of my own Childhood, when I used to cry in my room for no reason. Why couldn't I be a strong independent, independent adult like her? I just wanted to ride the waves like that young girl, sit on a rock and just feel the breeze, sing some songs and dance. This was something she did every day, no matter how old she was. Where was I? I began to feel the cold wind blowing on my exposed face. Why was I feeling so depressed today? During the winter days when I missed the early spring rain, I'd sleep on the couch, wrapped in my wool blanket. And now it's like I miss the rain even more now. I had been walking for over ten minutes, and still couldn't see the old fisherman's shack, or even the street I was trying to cross. Even if I could see it, it would be lunchtime by now. But I felt the taste of my breakfast in my mouth. I couldn't recall the last time I'd had my favorite beef and beans... Could it be six months ago? No, it couldn't. It had been seven years. I needed to feel hungry again. So I took out my phone and opened Google Maps to search for food. As expected, it pointed me to the newly developed shopping mall. I'd been there just the other day, when it was colder than the polar ice caps. My phone screen was telling me that it was 22 degrees Celsius. An unacceptable temp for me at the moment. I glanced at the sun. It was definitely going down. "Maybe I need to eat right now," I thought as I held the phone at
